4 road workers fired; 1 arrested in Trimble meth case

By COLLIN OVERTON AND MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

Trimble County government is working to meet winter demands after firing five of nine Road Department employees while state police investigate the sale of methamphetamine.

Kentucky State Police's Drug Enforcement and Special Investigations unit Friday arrested department supervisor Michael Stewart on charges of possession of a controlled substance, first degree, and possession of drug paraphernalia, a misdemeanor, according to the Carroll County Detention Center. Judge Executive Todd Pollock said he ordered the remaining employees to take drug tests. One refused, one failed and two tried to tamper with the test according to the doctor who administered the test, which is a failure. They were subsequently fired, Pollock said Saturday.

"If somebody would have told me...I probably would have dismissed it," Pollock said.

Pollock said he had never experienced any trouble with the employees or had any suspicion of drug use. They showed up on time, had no accidents, and by all accounts did their jobs, he said.

"You could have knocked me over with a feather," Pollock said. Following the dismissals, Pollock said the county road department is down to four full-time and one part-time employee at a time when a road emergency is just one winter storm away. However, he said, three of the county's four elected magistrates have volunteered to drive snow plow trucks if needed, including one who holds a Commercial Driver's License.

"Three of the magistrates say they will get in a truck if needed and we typically have six or seven out anyway when the snow flies so we should be OK," Pollock said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Pollock's office has been flooded with phone calls from people interested in jobs with the road department. Pollock said the county probably will hire three workers in the next couple of weeks.

"The applicants are people who live here and want to work close to home," Pollock said, adding the starting pay is $12 per hour or $13 for those with a CDL and includes vacation leave, sick leave and comp time as well as health and life insurance and retirement. Candidates can apply at Pollock's office in the courthouse.

New applicants will be required to pass a drug test before being hired and random drug tests once on the job. Pollock is working on that policy right now for adoption as soon as possible. The policy will cover the road and parks department employees, the Emergency Medical Service, solid waste coordinator and animal control officer. The magistrates and Pollock have agreed to voluntarily submit to testing.

The county's policy now allows the department head or judge-executive to order a random drug test if drug use is "suspected" or in the event of an accident, but moving forward, Pollock said, tests will be random.

Pollock said road department assistant supervisor Barry Sherrell, who is among the remaining employees, has been named interim road supervisor but that the department could be reorganized once the new employees are hired.

The topic came up again at Tuesday night's Fiscal Court meeting when county resident Russell Young suggested every county official and employee be drug tested.

"Our county doesn't need any kind of negative publicity. And, this is a black eye for the county. I'm not making excuses, that's a fact. And we need to do something to reinforce it — that this county is not all bad," Young said.

Magistrates told the public of the new drug testing policy and said they had all taken drug tests and paid for them with their own money.

'2nd Amendment sanctuaries' growing

Trimble County has joined a growing list of local governments approving resolutions to become "Second Amendment sanctuaries."

The movement has gained traction since new gun control bills are anticipated in Virginia, which prompted a rally in Richmond and widespread opposition from gun owners.

That opposition has trickled into Kentucky and Indiana, as a sanctuary resolution was approved in Jennings County last week and a petition to make Jefferson County a sanctuary has circulated in recent days.

Judge Executive Todd Pollock introduced the resolution Tuesday night at Fiscal Court in Trimble County and said it's similar to what Harlan County approved in December.

"In all truth, this is very symbolic. It doesn't have any teeth. We can't enforce things that the state or feds don't give us permission to do," Pollock said. "However, if each county is doing these resolutions — and there's a lot of them doing it — it's going to send the legislators in Frankfort and in Washington D.C. a very strong message that we don't want our Second Amendment rights infringed on."

Sheriff Charlie Kelton stood behind the resolution. "This sheriff is all for keeping your Second Amendment rights the way they are...the state should protect us from any kind of infringement on it, but this helps, and I can tell you that the sheriff is not going to be gun-grabbing," Kelton said.

An audience member who said he has family in Virginia, asked Kelton if that meant he wouldn't confiscate firearms if ordered by the state.

Kelton said there are instances with existing laws where that is obviously necessary, but he would refuse any instance of a "county-wide sweep" to confiscate guns.

Trimble County Attorney Crystal Heinz said the resolution didn't appear to be regulating firearms, but gave magistrates a disclaimer before adopting it.

Any ordinance that prohibits enforcement of state regulation of firearms is in direct conflict with KRS 65.870, a statute that prohibits the local regulation of firearms, she said, explaining that a county government does not have the authority to defy state or federal law.

"So aside from having no real legal effect, sanctuary legislation could potentially subject counties to costly legal battles, which would likely be fruitless. So for whatever that's worth, I just wanted to do my job to advise the court legally and that's the advice that I give you," Heinz said.

Teen driver in fatal crash arraigned in Ky.

By MARK CAMPBELL

The Jefferson County teen accused of leading police on a chase that ended in a crash that killed two other local teenagers was arraigned in Jefferson County (Kentucky) District Court Tuesday in Louisville on a fugitive warrant related to his escape from a group home in Richmond, Indiana, earlier this month.

Blake Coombs, 18, of Madison, had been a patient at University of Louisville Hospital since that crash Thursday, Jan. 9.

An Indiana warrant for his arrest was waiting for him on his discharge from the hospital. He is charged with walking off from the Wernle Youth & Family Treatment Center in Richmond where he had been sent as a juvenile.

Bond for Coombs was set at $25,000 cash at the Louisville hearing, but he is being held pending extradition to Indiana on the earlier charge in Wayne County. He remains in custody in Louisville.

Indiana State Police continue to investigate the 20-minute pursuit that took place Jan. 9 after a Madison Police Department officer attempted to stop a car driven by Coombs.

The chase ended when Coombs crashed the car into two utility poles at the intersection of S.R. 256 and Thompson Road. Coombs was seriously injured but two passengers, car owner Tyler Cooley, 18, of Hanover, and Brooklyn James, 19, of Madison, both died.

Jefferson County Prosecutor David R. Sutter said it is his understanding that Coombs had waived extradition in Kentucky and should be back in Indiana soon but he won't be coming to Jefferson County.

"He will initially be back in DOC custody on the warrant from his previous juvenile case and related escape ... ISP is still investigating and we will review for charges as soon as we receive the final report," Sutter said.

McKay named interim Madison police chief

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

The search committee charged with helping to select Madison's next police chief will begin whittling down that field of candidates next week, but one of the 68 applicants has been given an opportunity to serve in the position until that decision is made.

Major Ben McKay, the city's assistant chief of police, was named interim police chief effective Monday, Jan. 20. A candidate for police chief, McKay said he was glad to step up in the interim after former Chief Jeremey Perkins opted not to reapply for the position and was reassigned to his rank before being named chief of the department in 2017 by former Mayor Damon Welch.

"I'm the assistant chief so I was asked to step up to the chief's position in the interim, but I have also applied for the position," McKay said. "I'm only going to be interim for the six to eight weeks or until they're done with the process — however long it takes them to get through the process. I want to thank the mayor for giving me the opportunity to make sure the department can continue moving forward until the process is over."

McKay joined the police department as a patrolman in 2004 and graduated from the police academy in May 2005. He was promoted to senior patrolman in 2007 and sergeant in 2010 before being named assistant chief of police in June 2017 with the rank of major. Before joining MPD, McKay was a reserve deputy with the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department and an EMT with King's Daughters Hospital. He continues to serve as a volunteer firefighter with the city's Clifty 6 Fire and Rescue.

Indiana's infant mortality rate at its lowest in 6 years

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana has experienced the biggest decrease in its infant-mortality rate in six years. In 2017, 7.3 of every 1,000 babies born in Indiana died in their first year of life, which was one of the highest rates in the nation. In 2018, the rate dipped to 6.8 per 1,000. The Indianapolis Star reported that in all, 559 infants died in 2018 compared to 602 the previous year. "Quite honestly, this is a culmination of a number of years of very intensive efforts from multiple state agencies and Gov. Eric Holcomb," said Dr. Kristina Box, Indiana state health commissioner. "I celebrate those babies that were saved, but we still have a long way to go." One of the state initiatives is an OB navigator program that provides personal, at-home support for women living in the 20 counties with the highest infant-mortality rate. The program follows mother and baby for six months to a year after birth. Box hopes tackling infant mortality will have a positive impact on maternal health as well. The state's maternal mortality rate of 50 deaths per 100,000 live births is also among the highest in the nation, ranking at 48, according to America's Health Rankings. Box wants to address both infant and maternal mortality with a pregnancy accommodations bill in the Indiana General Assembly. The bill would require employers to make reasonable accommodations of their workers who are pregnant so that they may keep working if possible.

Court warns of scam Social Security calls

INDIANAPOLIS — Federal court officials are warning that scammers posing as court employees are calling people with cases pending before the court and asking them for their Social Security number. The U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Indiana said court officials would never contact someone and demand personal information such as their Social Security number. The court is also reminding the public never to divulge personal information or financial information to unknown callers. Court officials urge citizens who believe they have been victims of the scam to report it to the District Court Clerk's Office and the Federal Trade Commission. The Social Security number scam is the latest that the federal court has warned about in recent years. Those include a scam in which callers posing as U.S. marshals or other government officials claim that their would-be victims can avoid imminent arrest for not appearing for jury duty by paying a fine. Prospective jurors who disregard a summons will be contacted only by the court officials by mail and in certain circumstances they may be ordered to appear before a judge. Court officials will also never request any kind of payment by phone or email. Reports of scams or efforts to scam can be made to the clerk's office for the federal court at 317-229-3700 and the Federal Trade Commission at https://www.ftccomplaintassistant.gov

House backs tougher tobacco retailer rules

INDIANAPOLIS — Stores across the state would face tougher penalties for selling tobacco products to anyone younger than 21 under a bill endorsed Tuesday by the Indiana House. The additional penalties are part of a bill increasing Indiana's minimum age for smoking and vaping from 18 to 21 to conform with a new federal law. The proposal would boost the fine against a retailer for a first violation from a $200 maximum to a minimum of $500. The penalties would increase until a third violation within three years, which would carry a minimum $1,000 fine and a three-year loss of the store's tobacco sales certificate. House members voted 84-14 in favor of the bill. The Senate is considering its own bill with different changes to the penalties. Supporters argue the tougher penalties are needed to crack down on retailers selling to youth when they are most likely to pick up a smoking or vaping habit. "I promise you, when we stand here in 10 more years our numbers will be down and we will see less lung disease and less lung cancer," said Republican Rep. Ann Vermilion of Marion, a former hospital administrator. Anti-smoking advocates had supported a provision in the House bill to eliminate the possible fines against minors caught with tobacco or electronic cigarettes, saying those aren't fair to youth who may have become addicted. But House members voted last week to keep those possible penalties against minors as part of state law.

Lilly plans plant with 460-plus jobs

DURHAM, N.C. — Indianapolis-based pharmaceutical giant Eli Lilly & Co. will build a new manufacturing facility in North Carolina, generating more than 460 new jobs. Gov. Roy Cooper and company CEO David Ricks spoke at a news conference to unveil the $470 million investment in the Durham County portion of Research Triangle Park. Average pay for the new jobs at the plant — which in part will produce injectable drugs to treat diabetes — will exceed $72,000, according to Cooper's office and the state Commerce Department. The jobs, to be created by 2027, will include scientists, engineers and plant operators. Lilly could receive $8.7 million from the state over 12 years if it meets job-creation and investment goals. A state panel approved the incentives agreement earlier Tuesday. Durham County and the state community college system also provided financial sweeteners. North Carolina was competing with Indianapolis and Philadelphia for the plant, according to the Commerce Department. Lilly already has plants in Indiana, New Jersey and Puerto Rico.

STATE BRIEFS

Lawmakers weigh requiring youth helmets

INDIANAPOLIS — Safety advocates are pushing for a law requiring all youth to wear a helmet while riding a bicycle, skateboard or skates on public property. A bill discussed Tuesday by the Indiana House public safety committee would give police officers the option to issue tickets with maximum $25 fines to violators younger than 18 or impound the riding device until the youth is shown to have a proper helmet. Bill supporters discussed the tragedy of severe head injuries sustained by youth not wearing protective helmets in riding accidents. They said that having a state law could encourage helmet use much like the introduction of seatbelt laws improved the safety for all riding in cars. The bill sponsor, Republican Rep. Randy Frye of Greensburg, said his proposal is to encourage helmet use by not making fines an option until 2021 and setting up a process for providing helmets to police and fire departments for free distribution to youth. The committee could vote on the bill next week. Frye said he was still working on modifying the bill in the hope of gaining enough support for it to advance because some lawmakers are concerned about whether a state law should mandate helmet use.

Longer limit weighed for abuse charges

INDIANAPOLIS — Authorities would have more time to press criminal charges in child sexual abuse cases under a bill endorsed by a legislative committee. The Senate criminal law committee voted unanimously in support of the bill Tuesday after rolling back its original provisions to eliminate the statute of limitations when charges could be filed for rape and child sexual abuse cases. The proposal going to the full Senate would bring the statute of limitations on crimes such as child molesting, sexual misconduct with a minor and incest in line with a 2015 law regarding rape charges. Current law only allows prosecution until the victim reaches age 31, but the change would allow an additional five years if authorities obtain DNA evidence or an attacker's confession. Some child sexual abuse victims urged the committee to completely eliminate the time limits, saying it was 20 years or longer before they were able to talk with others about the abuse.Tracey Krueger of the Indiana Coalition to End Sexual Assault and Human Trafficking said the group believed the time limit should be eliminated but the extended time was a step forward. The state prosecutors association said the additional time would let police pursue investigations in abuse cases and seek the needed evidence. Committee Chairman Republic

Hoosier Energy to close Sullivan County plant

BLOOMINGTON — Bloomington-based Hoosier Energy said it will idle the coal-fired Merom Generating Station in Sullivan County in 2023, affecting 185 workers. Hoosier Energy said the action is part of a transition to other energy sources including wind, solar, natural gas and storage. The 1,070-megawatt plant went online in 1982. Hoosier Energy said the closing is part of a long-range resource plan designed to provide its 18-member power cooperatives with "reliable, affordable and environmentally sustainable energy while saving members an estimated $700 million over the next two decades." It said the plan will cut its carbon footprint by nearly 80%. Hoosier Energy President & CEO Donna Walker said the cooperative will work with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers to offer affected workers help with retraining, reassignment, retirement options and outplacement.

State to continue hemp program as pilot

FRANKFORT — The Department of Agriculture will continue operating its hemp program as a research pilot program for another year before transitioning to a commercial program, the agency said. Congress gave state agriculture departments the option to continue pilot programs before submitting plans to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner Ryan Quarles said Tuesday in a news release. "After much discussion with industry stakeholders in Kentucky, I determined our state will operate our current hemp program for another year as we responsibly make plans to take Kentucky's hemp industry into the next phase in 2021 and beyond," Quarles said. Growers can apply until March 15 to grow hemp in Kentucky. The application is available online. Processor applications are also available there and will be accepted year-round.

Army depot begins destroying nerve agents

RICHMOND — Officials have begun destroying nerve agents that have been stored at a Army depot for decades. The first projectile containing GB nerve agent was successfully destroyed Jan. 17, the Blue Grass Chemical Agent Destruction Pilot Plant said in a statement. The facility at the Blue Grass Army Depot in Richmond began destroying mustard-agent munitions last year. "This is another major milestone toward eliminating the total chemical weapons stockpile in Kentucky," said project manager Candace Coyle. "With each munition destroyed, we are making Madison and surrounding counties a safer place to live." A stockpile of more than 500 tons of mustard gas, GB or VX agent had been stored at the Army Depot, some since the 1940s.

Kentucky hospital, care sites to close in '20

ASHLAND — A hospital in eastern Kentucky and several other care sites will be shutting down later this year, officials announced Tuesday. Bon Secours Health System said it will end acute and outpatient care in the Ashland and Tri-State communities by the end of September 2020, leading to the closure of Our Lady of Bellefonte Hospital, news outlets reported. Several system-owned care sites and its physician network, Bellefonte Physician Services also will close. Bon Secours said the company has tried to sustain operations but the area has multiple facilities "competing for the same patients, providers and services." "We take the responsibility that comes with this decision very seriously, and we do not go into it lightly," the statement said. Our Lady of Bellefonte has more than 1,000 employees. Interim Hospital President Jason Asic said they are working with employees to identify new job opportunities or different careers. Providers will work with their patients individually to ensure a smooth continuity of care, Bon Secours said. Rep. Danny Bentley of Russell said the hospital closure is "devastating news for our community." He said he has asked Governor Andy Beshear's office to help keep the hospital open.

UofL loan to buy Jewish advances

FRANKFORT — The University of Louisville's request for a $35 million state loan to assist in its purchase of Jewish Hospital started advancing in the Kentucky legislature Tuesday.The measure cleared the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee with bipartisan support. The bill has political clout behind it with Republican House Speaker David Osborne and the chamber's top-ranking Democrat, Rep. Joni Jenkins, as its lead sponsors. The loan amount in the bill sent to the full House is $15 million lower than the original request. UofL announced in August it had received a commitment from then-Gov. Matt Bevin's administration for a $50 million partially forgivable loan to help the university acquire the former assets of KentuckyOne Health in Greater Louisville, including Jewish Hospital. UofL President Neeli Bendapudi said Tuesday that the lower loan amount being requested reflects cost savings and increased revenues gained from the transaction. Up to half of the $35 million loan would be forgivable if certain conditions are met, including retaining jobs and providing care to underserved communities, Osborne said.

Historical marker unveiled at Ali gym

LOUISVILLE — People passing by the Kentucky gym where Muhammad Ali learned to box will see a new historical marker there. The Columbia Gym at Spalding University in Louisville also has a red bicycle hanging over the entrance to the gym. Ali's red bike was stolen when he was young, leading him to a police officer who trained at the gym. Officer Joe Martin told Ali, then known as Cassius Clay, he would have to learn to fight, and Clay started training at the same gym. News outlets report the marker was unveiled last week the day before Ali would have turned 78. He died in 2016. Ali's brother, Rahman Ali, helped unveil the marker. He said his brother's "whole life" started at Columbia Gym.

New boat ramp for Ohio River access

LOUISVILLE — Officials have broken ground on a new boat ramp that will provide public access to the Ohio River in Louisville. The boat ramp and parking area at Shawnee Park will provide boaters with river access below McAlpine Locks and Dam and the Falls of the Ohio, according to a statement from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Construction on the project, which is a joint venture between Louisville Parks and Recreation and Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, began last week. "The new boat ramp in Shawnee Park will provide a highly-sought-after recreational amenity in this historic Olmsted Park," Louisville Mayor Greg Fischer said. "I look forward to seeing it used by anglers, canoers and those looking to simply get out on the water and have some fun." Construction could be completed by this fall.

Madison JAG students look to keep raking in the awards

By COLLIN OVERTON
Courier staff writer

Two Madison Consolidated High School seniors look to further their success and employability skills at the Jobs For America's Graduates (JAG) Region 9 conference Thursday at Hanover College.

JAG is a national non-profit organization centered on helping high school students who show promise, but have experienced difficult or traumatic life experiences, reach graduation and gain employability skills. There are now 136 JAG programs throughout Indiana and 1,400 program affiliates nationwide in 39 states, according to JAG's website. The network boasts a 96% graduation rate among its students.

Caroline Kirby and Carson Denton attended JAG's National Student Leadership Academy in Washington D.C. from Dec. 5-7 and came back with an award and new perspectives.

For Kirby, that meant a first-place award in the Employability Skills competition, where students are expected to fill out an application, provide reference letters, arrive for an interview properly dressed and ace the interview to get the job. After getting reference letters from her JAG teacher, Whitney Matthews and her boss, Dr. Thomas Lisle, she did just that.

"I'm proud of them all, but I'm super proud of those two because they were taken completely out of their element, and they met people who had no idea who they were," Matthews said. "...They really kind of stuck together and it ended up being a great experience, because everybody said that they were the best kids ever. Everyone said they behaved the best, they were outgoing, they were professional, they were anything they could have asked for."

Their chaperone was April Pearson, the JAG coordinator at Lawrenceburg High School. Before the trip, the kids had never met her either, Matthews said.

While Kirby was acing her interview, Denton attended training sessions on leadership and communication. He said lessons on effective communication and body language stuck with him the most.

"They said the words you say only make up like 17 percent of what an action means...that really stuck out to me," he said.

Denton, who plays on the soccer team, hopes to attend the University of Southern Indiana and apply these lessons when he studies either sports management or sports administration.

The pair were two out of six students selected from JAG Indiana's Region 9 to attend, which includes Madison Consolidated, Jennings County, Seymour, Brownstown Central, South Ripley, Milan, Jac-Cen-Del, South Dearborn and Lawrenceburg high schools.

It was far from a free ride to go. Both students had to fundraise at least $700 to cover meals, room and board and other expenses.

"Everyone that went had to fund the money in some way or another and I think everybody kind of did it different, but what we did was try to find some community sponsors," Kirby said.

Those sponsors were usually local businesses. Denton said got numerous sponsors from around town by asking and agreeing to share with them what he learned from the conference.

When they got to D.C., they mingled with students from around the country and toured national monuments as part of their training. Kirby recalled there were JAG students from California, Louisiana and 37 other states at the conference.

"It was really cool. All the different accents you heard really stuck out," she said. "It was really cool getting to meet how different people are."

Kirby, who wants to be an optometrist, now works part-time with the Eye Care Group at 2580 Michigan Rd. She got the job after interning with the eye clinic through JAG last summer, she said.

She hopes eventually to attend Indiana University Bloomington School of Optometry for a master's degree after getting a degree in biology or a related field for undergrad. As for where she'll attend the next four years, she's split between IU Bloomington and Hanover College.

Kirby is also president of the Madison JAG chapter and the She Became program, and plays on the school's tennis team.

She and Denton will both compete in competitions Thursday, with Denton competing in Financial Literacy and Kirby in the Outstanding Senior competition. Students from around the region will also compete in Career Presentation, Creative Solutions, Critical Thinking, Employability Skills, Entrepreneurship Plan, Project Based Learning and Public Speaking competitions.

The Hanover College event is expected to begin at 9 a.m. and continue to 1:30 p.m. and include an informational fair, lunch buffet, award ceremony, and guest appearances from Lenae Price of Mindset Collaborative LLC., Brad Wood of River Valley Resources and Indiana First Lady Janet Holcomb.

• McKay named

High School, McKay helped establish MPD's Emergency Response Team in 2009 and has served as the commander of the countywide SWAT team for 10 years. He was awarded the city's Medal of Valor in 2017 for his role, along with other officers, in preventing an attempted suicide on the Milton-Madison Bridge.

"Community safety is our top priority. I am grateful to Chief McKay for accepting this interim position and the leadership he exhibits for our community. I look forward to working with Chief McKay on our key initiatives," said Mayor Bob Courtney.

McKay said Perkins will continue to serve in the department.

"He will go back to the rank he was prior to coming into the office until there is a position open equal to what he would have achieved while he was in the office," McKay said. "When he went into the office as assistant chief he would have left as a sergeant. He'll go back as a sergeant until there is an opening for the rank he would have achieved during that time and that would be captain."

The police department now has two holding the rank of captain — Rick Mundt and Bruce Heaton.

Mindy McGee, the city's chief of staff, said Tuesday that the search for the new police chief has reached the first part of the selection process.

"A lot of really good candidates were received from a wide area and a diverse background," McGee noted.

"The city's police chief can have an immense effect on the safety and security of a community as well the overall quality of life," said a statement released by the city Tuesday. "This is an important decision for the City of Madison and much consideration is being taken as the mayor continues to work through the selection process. McKay will serve as chief until the mayor and the selection committee make a permanent appointment to the position."

McGee said the 68 applications received for the top law enforcement post will be narrowed to about five starting next week. Those five then will be interviewed by the selection committee before the job is offered to the top candidate.

The search committee includes Courtney as well as local resident Dave Carlow; state Sen. Jack Sandlin, a former law enforcement officer; and Ripley County Prosecutor Richard J. Hertel.

"The police chief is one of the most important positions you can fill in the city from their responsibility as an employee to their relationship with the community. It's a very important job and it needs to be done right. It can impact your turnover rate with your officers and your consistency of enforcement," McGee said.

When Courtney announced he was opening a search for police chief last year he said that Perkins could reapply and McKay could apply for the position but for members of the department the move signaled some change might be likely in MPD leadership.

McKay said whatever happens with the search for a new chief, he remains committed to the department and to serving Madison as do other officers he's talked with at MPD.

"Everybody seems to be glad we're moving forward," McKay said. "They're ready to find out what the future holds."

On June 3, 1972, she was united in marriage to Le Roy "Al" Allen Humphrey, Jr. in Indianapolis, Indiana. Their wonderful marriage of 48 years was blessed with sons, Joshua Allen and Keegan Drew, and a daughter, Erika Diane. She was employed at RPH for 41 years as a pharmacist. Beverly had a very adventurous spirit and loved to travel. She flew a plane, went skydiving, went zip lining multiple times, tried to ski, enjoyed theme parks, and loved Star Trek. Beverly was a competitive ballroom dancer. She even started a chapter in the Red Hat Society for her mother. She never missed a ballgame of her children, even after they became adults. She was famous for her Kool-Aid at ballgames. To say she was a collector of things was an understatement. Beverly had a big personality and could light up a room with her presence. She was the life of the party and you could always count on her being late! She loved music of any kind. But mostly the 80's. She was a beloved wife, loving momma, sister, and aunt. Beverly died on Saturday, January 18, 2020, at 7:20 p.m. at the Community Hospital North in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Hos Coffee on the hilltop joins Madison's live music scene

By CHARLIE ROHLFING

You may have seen or heard about the brand new coffee shop in the shopping center next to Madison high school. Hos Coffee, named after the Hostetler family who owns it, has been open about four months and things are off to a great start.

"We do all our baking fresh in-house," said Tricia Hostetler, "Muffins, scones, tarts, and cinnamon rolls from my mother-in-law's famous recipe. Tricia's son, Trayton, noted the "coffee comes from a specialty roaster over in Louisville called Sunergos."

I can attest the coffee was excellent and the baked goods looked scrumptious, but I was on the trail of live music, and I'm happy to say Hos Coffee is giving it a try, starting Friday, Feb. 7 at 7 p.m.

Chris Hostetler is a music lover, and it's been his dream to have a place where he could host live performances.

"I play a little guitar and sing myself," Chris said. "I'm also the worship leader at 24/7 Live Church here in town, so there's a lot of praise singing there. Music is kind of a passion for me.

"The idea is to pull in the community, get together and have fun," he continued. "I love what music does with people, how it brings them together and touches them."

"We want to create a relaxing atmosphere where folks can just come and hang out, something other than a bar club. Obviously there won't be alcohol at our shows, but lots of great hot and cold coffee drinks!"

Trayton Hostetler, Tricia Hostetler and Bri Adams

"We're going to try the music about once a month to start. I'd love to make it a regular feature here, and maybe even more often, but we'll just have to see how it goes."

The first show on Feb. 7 will be Bri Adams who plays under the stage name Many Rooms. I did a story on Bri in early May last year.

Bri is originally from Houston, Texas, but she lives here in Madison now with her husband, Danny, and works behind the counter at Hos Coffee.

"I went out on a big U.S. tour this summer for about two months," Bri said. "Then I went with a couple other bands to Europe where we hit the U.K., Germany, Belgium and Poland. Poland was actually one of the biggest crowds, it was wild!

"I'm working on a new record now, it's been about two years since my last one, so I'll be playing some of that new stuff here at the coffee shop. I'm excited about bringing music here, adding to the many places in town that feature live music now."

If you haven't heard Bri's music, you owe it to yourself to check it out. It's absolutely original and unique.

The instrumental is sparse and hypnotic, and her vocals are somewhere between a whisper and a quiet plaintive cry. It's very moving.

Go to your computer and bring up YouTube, then search the words "Many Rooms Hollow Body." You'll see what I mean. It's mesmerizing.

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK:

Lots of music worth checking out this weekend. On Friday the Madison Performing Arts Foundation is presenting the operatic soprano Ebonee Davis at the Presbyterian Church. She will sound great in that big sanctuary.

Also on Friday at the Taproom, Robert Reynolds, Darryl Hewitt, Tim Halcomb and Mark Bear will play some new original tunes and some rocking favorites.

Saturday at Rembrandt's will be the traditional French duo La Petite Musique. And Saturday, at Red Bicycle Hall you have a rare opportunity to see Nashville royalty Bobby Bare Jr. perform. He doesn't tour very much, and he is a special talent.

Charlie Rohlfing is a retired advertising man and partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening.

Madison holds on late to knock off Scottsburg 58-53

dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

SCOTTSBURG — Madison built a 10-point first half lead then held off a furious rally to knock off Scottsburg 58-53 in a girls basketball battle of Sectional 30 foes Tuesday on the road.

The Cubs played one of their best halves of the season in jumping out to the big lead. Jade Nutley scored 18 points and Taylor Lynch added eight as Madison led 22-12 early and 38-28 just before the half.

But Scottsburg, who was playing without head coach Donna Cheatham who suffered a broken arm during practice on Tuesday, rallied behind acting coach Rhonda Smith in the second half. The Warriorettes cut the lead to one late in the game but couldn't get over the hump as Madison held on for the win.

It was a big win for Madison coach Sonja Bowyer, who knows just how difficult getting Scottsburg on its home floor can be.

"I'm exhausted and I didn't even play. I'm going to have to check my steps on that one," joked Bowyer, who played for both Cheatham and Smith at Southwestern High School. "I knew it was going to be that type of ballgame looking at the last two years, up and down, up and down. I knew there would be some runs by both teams and we were lucky to have a strong finish. They came back on us and we could have melted a couple of times, but we didn't."

Madison (12-7) used its poise down the stretch to hold off a Warriorette team that dominated large stretches of the second half.

Leading 38-32 at the half, the Cubs managed only four points in the third quarter but still maintained a 42-38 lead thanks to a stingy defense and rebounding. But Scottsburg didn't waste any time inching closer, getting a 3-pointer from Hannah Stutsman to open the fourth to get within one.

But Madison didn't fold. Every time Scottsburg made a run, the Cubs answered and it wasn't just Nutley that hit a big shot.

Jessie Dyer and Paige Young answered Stutsman's three with back-to-back baskets and Nutley and Young each hit a free throw to push the lead back to seven. Scottsburg roared back, getting the lead back down to one (52-51) on a Zoe Zellers layup with 2:37 to play.

Scottsburg (12-8) got the ball back on a Zellers steal under the basket and the Warriorettes had two chances to go ahead but both shots at the rimmed missed and Madison was able to clear the ball. Lynch then hit a long 2-pointer to push the lead back to three.

Scottsburg again cut the lead to one, this time on two Jaylah Mays free throws with 1:02 left to go, and Madison left the door open with a missed free throw on the other end. But Riley Pool's 3-point attempt fell short, Dyer grabbed the rebound for the Cubs and Young hit two free throws to get the lead back to three with 27 seconds left.

Another missed three with six seconds left by Scottsburg and two more free throws by Young sealed the win.

Lynch, who has struggled a bit in recent weeks, responded with a big game, scoring 13 points and grabbing six rebounds while dishing out three assists to help lead the Cubs to the win. Bowyer was pleased with the play of her sophomore point guard.

"She's got the knack for the ball and those amazing moves and her passes. She brings a different element to the game," Bowyer said. "Sometimes there's a little bitty glimpse (of her youth) but other times it's like 'holy crap, did she just make that move?'"

Nutley finished with 21 points and nine rebounds to lead Madison while

Rebels stay unbeaten in ORVC with rout of Rising Sun

By JORDAN BEAR
Courier Staff Writer
sports@madisoncourier.com

On a night where Southwestern honored its All-Decades teams, the Lady Rebels took another step toward an Ohio River Valley Conference title with a 73-49 win over Rising Sun on Tuesday.

Southwestern led the game wire-to-wire, jumping out to a quick 19-12 lead after the first quarter. The Shiners played almost even with the Rebels in the second quarter as Southwestern took a 32-22 lead into the halftime break.

The third quarter was where the Southwestern offense erupted as it opened up on a 10-0 run en route to taking a 19-point lead into the final period. The Rebels then put it in cruise control in the fourth to improve to 4-0 in conference play.

"I wasn't particularly happy with our defense in the second quarter allowing them to stay in the game. I thought we really needed to do a better job defensively," Southwestern coach Devin Brierly said. "I'm really pleased with the third quarter. I'm glad to see us hitting shots and sharing the ball so well. I think after our halftime talk, we came out ready to go and they were fired up."

Southwestern also honored its lone senior before the game, Bella Marcum. Marcum, who was one of the leading scorers for Southwestern with 16 points, received high praise from her head coach after the game.

"She's been so huge for us. She's one of those kids who hustles all the time. You never have to ask her to work hard, she always is ready to go to work in practice and it games," Brierly said. "She sees the floor really well, she anticipates really well, and she's just a hard-nosed kid who will do anything you ask of her."

In addition to Marcum's 16 points, Southwestern also got 16 points from Ashton Goode, who's uncle was honored before the game as he is currently battling colon cancer. Ellie Foley and Trinity McClain both had 15 points each.

Rising Sun was led by Maddi Wilson, who had 20 points, and Baylee Morris with 14.

Southwestern improves to 14-6 overall and is now 4-0 in the ORVC. The Rebels will travel to South Ripley today, and will close out conference play next Thursday at home against Class 1A No. 6 Jac-Cen-Del. The Lady Rebels are just two wins away from an ORVC title, and Brierly hopes her team continues playing the same type of play they have had in recent weeks.

"I like where our team is right now. We need to focus on what we do and not try on focus on what others are doing," Brierly said. "My team is in a really good place right now, and I like our chances as we head into our final games."

Pacers' ORVC hopes dashed in loss

OSGOOD — Switzerland County looked to stay in the hunt for an Ohio River Valley Conference title against Class A No. 6 Jac-Cen-Del on Tuesday night but a second half lapse eliminated the Pacers from contention as the host Eagles picked up a 59-40 win in girls basketball action.

The loss marks the fourth-straight for Switzerland County after starting the season 12-3 and also serves as the second loss in ORVC play. The Pacers never led despite battling early on as Jac-Cen-Del stayed in control and picked up steam to run away with a victory.

"Jac-Cen-Del is a good team," Switzerland County head coach Mark Boggs said. "I felt like our energy level went down in the second half. I liked the way we competed in the first but didn't do enough in the second."

Jac-Cen-Del (16-4, 3-0 ORVC) built up leads in each of the first two quarters only to see the Pacers battle back. After the Eagles got out to a 9-4 lead in the first quarter on five points by Annabelle Williams, Switzerland County cut the deficit to two on a 3-pointer by Kyah Chase and kept the margin at two up until a minute left in the frame when back-to-back Eagle buckets pushed the margin to six points.

The lead crept up to nine points at 20-11 early in the second quarter on a 3-pointer by Paige Ledford and bucket by Kadee Kuhn but the Pacers controlled the rest of the half for a 10-4 run and trailed by a single possession at halftime.

Chase connected on her second basket of the night followed by a 3-pointer from Aleiah Thomas and a bucket by Jessie Duvall to make it a two-point game before Jac-Cen-Del answered again. However, Thomas closed out the half with a her second 3-pointer and the Pacers trailed just 24-21 at intermission.

"When you are able to get a couple shots to go down, it changes what the other team has to do defensively," Boggs said. "We were hesitant on some shots in the first half and that's a credit to Jac-Cen-Del's scouting report."

Much like the opening minutes of the first half, the second half again saw Jac-Cen-Del quickly push the lead to five points but this time Switzerland County was unable to answer with another run and the Eagles dominated the final two quarters.

Jac-Cen-Del seized control behind the scoring of Ledford and Williams and by beating the Pacers in the rebounding department. Jac-Cen-Del led by 10 points three minutes into the third quarter and held a double-digit margin the final 10 minutes of the game.

Ledford scored 14 points in the second half and finished the night leading all scorers with 22. Williams, who finished the game with 20 points, scored 15 in the final two quarters. The two outscored Switzerland County 29-19 over the last two periods.

"They are two good players," Boggs said of Ledford and Williams. "That's part of our scouting report is to obviously know where they are at on the floor at all times. It's one thing to say it, it's another thing to go do it. And we didn't do it. We missed a lot of rebounds too in that second half."

The Pacers were led by Jessie Duvall with 11 points, including seven points in the second half. Thomas added 10 points but was held to just two points in the second half.

Switzerland County (12-7, 2-2 ORVC) hosts Oldenburg Academy Thursday followed by Class 2A Sectional 45 foe South Decatur on Saturday afternoon.

BRIDGE

IF PARTNER OVERBIDS, YOU MUST OVERPLAY

Mark Twain wrote in a letter, "All you need in this life is ignorance and confidence; then success is sure."

What a weird thought! In particular, if you know you are ignorant, how can you feel confident?

In this deal, North showed confidence in his partner's declarer play. How should South have tried to justify his partner's optimism? South was in four hearts. West led the club ace and continued with the club king.

North's two-diamond overcall showed both majors. Then, when South indicated a preference for hearts, North optimistically and confidently plunged his partner into four hearts. Was he justified? Only time would tell.

South hoped to lose only one spade, one heart and one club. But he needed to reach his hand to lead a spade toward the dummy. So he carefully ruffed with the heart queen and continued with a low heart to his jack. West won and persevered with the club queen, but declarer ruffed with the heart ace and drew trumps with his heart 10 and heart nine. Now he had to decide what to do in spades.

What did South know? West had produced 9 points in clubs and 3 in hearts. So he needed the spade ace to have sufficient values for his opening bid. Declarer led a spade and put up dummy's king. When it held, he played off the diamond honors, conceded a spade and claimed the last two tricks with his remaining trump and the diamond jack.

Finally, note that if South had ruffed the second club low on the board, West could have kept South out of his hand.

Madison Moose Lodge helps kids

The Madison Moose Lodge and Family Center finished its 2019 year with a push toward helping pediatric patients with cancer.

The local Moose Lodge teamed with H.O.P.P.S. (Helping Our Pediatric Patients Smile) to raise funds to help buy Christmas items and other necessities for the children and families dealing with cancer. H.O.P.P.S. is a nonprofit organization that not only supports Jefferson and surrounding counties, but also helps stock the cabinets of the family waiting rooms at Kosair Children's Hospital in Louisvillewith snacks, gas cards and other necessities for the families of the children.

Moose Lodge No. 765, Women of the Moose No. 931 and the Moose Riders raised $2,200 this year, with an additional donation of $200 after the first donation. Local members also have donated items to the H.O.P.P.S. Annual Halloween Spook-tacular, their Annual Easter Egg Hunt, sold bracelets and Koozies, and hosted a dance, auction and the Riders of the Moose Annual Poker Run.

H.O.P.P.S. is one of many charities that members of the Moose support, including Mooseheart, Moosehaven, Jefferson County O.V.O and many more.

PETS OF THE WEEK

LARISSA

Larissa is a domestic medium-hair female who is 2 years old and unaltered. She is a fun, loving cat looking for her furever home. She loves to be around people and get attention. She loves making new friends at the shelter.

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has one dog or puppy, and 17 cats or kittens available. Pictures of additional pets waiting for adoption can be viewed at www.sisaveapet.com

Normal shelter hours are Monday, Thursday and Friday from noon to 5 p.m., Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 3 p.m. It is closed Tuesday. The shelter number is 812-273-1788 and the email is animal.shelter39@jefferson-county.in.gov

All cats and kittens are $45 off unless they are already spayed or neutered. Discount is courtesy of the Animal Shelter and the Jefferson County Humane Society.

Volunteers are always welcome at the shelter. Individuals must be at least 16 years old to volunteer. Volunteers can help with everyday cleaning, answering phones, and exercising the pets. Contact the shelter for details.

The shelter is a registered organization with the Kroger Community Rewards program. To support the shelter, register a Kroger card at www.krogercommunityrewards.com and enter FL919.

Support the shelter while walking your dog. Use the "Walk for a Dog" or "Woof-Trax" app available through the App Store or Google Play. For each mile walked, a donation is made to the shelter.

A list of needed items can be found on the shelter website. Donations can be mailed to 2727 Hannah Drive, Madison 47250 or dropped off during shelter hours. The shelter also accepts aluminum and steel cans, which are recycled and the proceeds put toward the medical fund. The shelter asks that aluminum and steel donations be separated. Steel cans should also be rinsed before they are dropped off. Cans can be dropped off at anytime in a bin on the east side of the shelter.

Those with missing pets can stop by the shelter, call or email a complete description of the pet, when and where it was last seen, the owner's name and contact information, and a picture of the pet. Pets are held for three days before they are made available for adoption.

Animals should not be abandoned outside of the shelter or dropped off at the shelter after hours.

For animal control issues in Madison, call 812-265-3347. For animal control issues in Hanover and Jefferson County, call 812-265-2648.

MARLY

Marly is around 7 months old and is a very energetic young lady. She would do best in a home with older kids because she likes to jump and play. She loves to make new friends with those who visit the shelter.
